

Fathers Day 2021

I was thinking about my resume of life and what I'm proud of. I've always been proud that I have never raised a fist in anger. Never been in a fight. Never. Pretty good stat for someone who grew up in the '50s Grease world and the '60s upheaval period, I would think. Who else could say that, I wondered? Truth is, I didn't even get out of my family! Tim - "I never even shoved someone in anger" Mike- "I shot my gun a few times in Vietnam, but I don't think I hit anything" Paul - "What are you writing about now? Of course I've never been in any scraps".... Although it popped my bubble of thinking I was the only one, it also made me realize what a great Dad I had. My Dad raised four sons that never got into a scrap, shot any living thing or even shoved anyone in anger. Now that's impressive and says a lot about my Dad. Joyfully, he also has many grandchildren who still love talking about the good times with Grandpa.... What a role model I've been blessed with.
